An Act for the better Securing the Dependency of His Majeſty's Dominions in America upon the Crown and Parliament of Great-Britain.

WHEREAS ſeveral of the Houſes of Repreſentatives in his Majeſty's Colonies and Plantations in America, have of late, againſt Law, claimed to themſelves, or to the General Aſſemblies of the ſame, the ſole and excluſive Right of impoſing Duties and Taxes upon his Majeſty's Subjects in the ſaid Colonies and Plantations; and have, in purſuance of ſuch Claim, paſſed certain Votes, Reſolutions, and Orders, derogatory to the Legiſlative Authority of Parliament, and inconſiſtent with the Dependency of the ſaid Colonies and Plantations upon the Crown of Great-Britain: May it therefore pleaſe Your moſt Excellent Majeſty, that it may be declared; and be it declared by the King's moſt Excellent Majeſty, by and with the Advice and Conſent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this preſent Parliament aſſembled; and by the Authority of the ſame, That the ſaid Colonies and Plantations in America have been, are, and of Right ought to be, ſubordinate unto, and dependent upon, the Imperial Crown and Parliament of Great-Britain; and that the King's Majeſty, by and with the Advice and Conſent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons of Great-Britain, in Parliament aſſembled, had, hath, and of Right ought to have, full Power and Authority to make Laws and Statutes of ſufficient Force and Validity to bind the Colonies and People of America, Subjects of the Crown of Great-Britain, in all Caſes whatſoever.

And be it further declared and Enacted by the Authority aforeſaid, That all Reſolutions, Votes, Orders, and Proceedings, in any of the ſaid Colonies or Plantations, whereby the Power and Authority of the Parliament of Great-Britain, to make Laws and Statutes as aforeſaid, is denied, or drawn into Queſtion, are, and are hereby declared to be, utterly null and void to all Intents and Purpoſes whatſoever.

An Act to repeal an Act made in the laſt Seſſion of Parliament, intituled, An Act for granting and applying certain Stamp Duties and other Duties in the Britiſh Colonies and Plantations in America, towards further defraying the Expences of defending, protecting, and ſecuring the ſame; and for amending ſuch Parts of the ſeveral Acts of Parliament relating to the Trade and Revenues of the ſaid Colonies and Plantations, as direct the Manner of determining and recovering the Penalties and Forfeitures therein mentioned.

WHEREAS an Act was paſſed in the laſt Seſſion of Parliament, intituled, An Act for granting and applying certain Stamp Duties, and other Duties, in the Britiſh Colonies and Plantations in America, towards further defraying the Expences of defending, protecting, and ſecuring the ſame; and for amending ſuch Parts of the ſeveral Acts of Parliament relating to the Trade and Revenues of the ſaid Colonies and Plantations, as direct the Manner of determining and recovering the Penalties and Forfeitures therein mentioned: And whereas the Continuance of the ſaid Act would be attended with many Inconveniencies, and may be productive of Conſequences greatly detrimental to the Commercial Intereſts of theſe Kingdoms; May it therefore pleaſe Your moſt Excellent Majeſty, that it may be enacted; and be it enacted by the King's moſt Excellent Majeſty, by and with the Advice and Conſent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this preſent Parliament aſſembled, and by the Authority of the ſame, That from and after the Firſt Day of May, One Thouſand Seven Hundred and Sixty-ſix, the above-mentioned Act, and the ſeveral Matters and Things therein contained, ſhall be, and is and are hereby repealed and made void to all Intents and Purpoſes whatſoever.

PROTEST against the Bill to Repeal the American Stamp-Act, of laſt Seſſion.

FIRST.

Diſſentient,

BECAUSE, as this Houſe has in this Seſſion by ſeveral reſolutions moſt ſolemnly aſſerted and declared, firſt, "That the King's Majeſty, by and with the advice and conſent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons of Great-Britain, in Parliament aſſembled, had, hath, and of right ought to have, full power and authority, to make laws and ſtatutes of ſufficient force and validity to bind the Colonies, and people of America, ſubjects of the Crown of Great-Britain, in all caſes whatſoever:" Secondly, "That tumults and inſurrections of the moſt dangerous nature have been raiſed and carried on in ſeveral of the North-American Colonies, in open defiance of the power and dignity of his Majeſty's Government, and in manifeſt violation of the laws and legiſlative authority of this Kingdom:" Thirdly, "That the ſaid tumults and inſurrections have been encouraged and inflamed, by ſundry votes and reſolutions paſſed in ſeveral of the Aſſemblies of the ſaid Provinces, derogatory to the honour of his Majeſty's Government, and deſtructive of the legal and conſtitutional dependency of the ſaid Colonies, on the imperial Crown and Parliament of Great-Britain:" Which reſolutions were founded on a full examination of the papers on our table, manifeſting a denial of the legiſlative authority of the Crown and Parliament of Great-Britain, to impoſe duties and taxes on our North-American Colonies; and a criminal reſiſtance there made to the execution of the commercial and other regulations of the Stamp-Act, and of other acts of parliament: We are of opinion, that the total repealing of that law, eſpecially while ſuch reſiſtance continues, would (as Governor Barnard ſays is their intention) "make the authority of Great-Britain contemptible hereafter;" and that ſuch a ſubmiſſion of King, Lords, and Commons, under ſuch circumſtances, in ſo ſtrange and unheard of a conteſt, would in effect, ſurrender their ancient, unalienable rights of ſupreme juriſdiction, and give them excluſively to the ſubordinate Provincial Legiſlatures eſtabliſhed by prerogative; which was never intended or thought of, and is not in the power of prerogative to beſtow; as they are inſeparable from the Three Eſtates of the Realm aſſembled in Parliament.

SECONDLY. Becauſe the law, which this Bill now propoſes to repeal, was paſſed in the other Houſe with very little oppoſition, and in this without one diſſentient voice, during the laſt ſeſſion of Parliament, which we preſume, if it had been wholly and fundamentally wrong, could not poſſibly have happened; as the matter of it is ſo important, and as the intention of bringing of it in had been communicated to the Commons by the firſt Commiſſioner of the Treaſury the year before, and a reſolution relating and preparatory to it, was then agreed to in that Houſe, without any diviſion.

THIRDLY. Becauſe, if any particular parts of that law, the principle of which has been experienced and ſubmitted to in this country, without repining, for near a century paſt, had been found liable to juſt and reaſonable objections, they might have been altered by a Bill to explain and amend it, without repealing the whole. And, if any ſuch Bill had been ſent to us by the Commons, we ſhould have thought it our duty to have given it a moſt ſerious conſideration, with a warm deſire of relieving our countrymen in America from any grievance or hardſhip; but with proper care to enforce their ſubmiſſion and obedience to the law ſo amended, aſſd to the whole legiſlative authority of Great-Britain, without any reſerve or diſtinction whatſoever.

FOURTHLY. Becauſe, it appears to us, that a moſt eſſential branch of that authority, the power of Taxation, cannot be properly, equitably or impartially exerciſed, if it does not extend itſelf to all the members of the ſtate in proportion to their reſpective abilities; but ſuffers a part to be exempt from a due ſhare of thoſe burthens, which the publick exigencies require to be impoſed upon the whole: A partiality which is directly and manifeſtly repugnant to the truſt repoſed by the people in every legiſlature, and deſtructive of that confidence on which all government is founded.

FIFTHLY. Becauſe, the ability of our North-American Colonies, to bear without inconveniency the proportion laid on them by the Stamp-Act of laſt year, appears to us moſt unqueſtionable, for the following reaſons: Firſt, That the eſtimated produce of this Tax, amounting to ſixty thouſand pounds per Annum, if divided amongſt twelve hundred thouſand people (being little more than one half of the ſubjects of the Crown in North-America) would be only one ſhilling per head a year; which is but a third of the wages uſually paid to every labourer or manufacturer there for one day's labour: Secondly, That it appears by the accounts that have been laid before this Houſe from the Commiſſioners of Trade and Plantations, that of the debt contracted by the Colonies in the laſt war, above 1,755,000*l.* has already been diſcharged during the courſe of three years only, by the funds provided for that purpoſe in the ſeveral Provinces; and the much greater part of the remaining incumbrance, which in the whole is about 760,000*l.* will be paid in two years more: We muſt likewiſe obſerve, that the bounties and advantages given to them by Parliament in 1764 and 1765, and the duties thereby loſt to Great-Britain for their ſervice, and in order to enable them the more eaſily to pay this Tax, muſt neceſſarily amount in a few years to a far greater ſum than the produce thereof. It is alſo evident, that ſuch produce being wholly appropriated to the payment of the army maintained by this Kingdom in our Colonies, at the vaſt expence of almoſt a ſhilling in the pound land-tax, annually remitted by us for their ſpecial defence and protection; not only no money would have been actually drawn by it out of that country, but the eaſe given by it to the people of Great-Britain, who are labouring under a debt of ſeventy millions, contracted by them to ſupport a very dangerous war, entered into for the intereſt and ſecurity of thoſe Colonies, would have redounded to the benefit of the Colonies themſelves in their own immediate ſafety, by contributing to deliver them from the neceſſary expence, which many of them have hitherto always borne, in guarding their frontiers againſt the ſavage Indians.

SIXTHLY. Becauſe, not only the right, but the expediency and neceſſity of the ſupreme legiſlature, exerting its authority to lay a general tax on our American Colonies, whenever the wants of the publick made it fitting and reaſonable, that all the Provinces ſhould contribute in a proper proportion to the defence of the whole, appear to us undeniable, from theſe conſiderations: Firſt, That every Province being ſeparate and independent on the others, and having no Common Council impowered by the conſtitution of the Colonies to act for all, or bind all, ſuch a tax cannot regularly, or without infinite difficulty, be impoſed upon them at any time, even for their immediate defence or protection, by their own provincial aſſemblies; but requires the intervention and ſuperintending power of the Parliament of Great-Britain. Secondly, That in looking forwards to the poſſible contingency of a new war, a contingency not far remote, the proſpect of the burthens which the gentry and people of this Kingdom muſt then ſuſtain, in addition to thoſe, which now lie ſo heavy upon them, is ſo melancholy and dreadful, that we cannot but feel it, a moſt indiſpenſible duty to eaſe them as much as is poſſible, by a due and moderate exertion of that great right, which the conſtitution of this realm has veſted in the Parliament, to provide for the ſafety of all, by a proportionable charge upon all, equally and indifferently laid. We likewiſe apprehend, that a partial exemption of our Colonies from any exerciſe of this right by the Britiſh Legiſlature, would be thought ſo invidious, and ſo unjuſt to the other ſubjects of the Crown of Great-Britain, as to alienate the hearts of theſe from their Countrymen reſiding in America, to the great detriment of the latter, who have on many occaſions received, and may again want aſſiſtance, from the generous warmth of their affection.

SEVENTHLY. Becauſe, the reaſons aſſigned in the publick reſolutions of the Provincial Aſſemblies, in the North-American Colonies, for their diſobeying the Stamp-Act, viz. "That they are not repreſented in the Parliament of Great-Britain," extends to all other laws, of what nature ſoever, which that Parliament has enacted, or ſhall enact, to bind them in times to come, and muſt (if admitted) ſet them abſolutely free from any obedience to the power of the Britiſh Legiſlature; we likewiſe obſerve, that in a letter to Mr. Secretary Conway, dated the 12th of October 1765; the commander in chief of his Majeſty's forces in North-America has delared his opinion, "That the Queſtion is not of the "inexpediency of the Stamp-Act, or of the inability of the "Colonies to pay the Tax; but that it is unconſtitutional "and contrary to their Rights, ſupporting the independency "of the Provinces, and not ſubject to the legiſlative power "of Great-Britain." It is moreover affirmed, in a letter to Mr. Conway, dated 7th November, "That the people "in general are averſe to Taxes of any kind; and that the "merchants of that place think they have a right to every "freedom of trade which the ſubjects of Great-Britain now "enjoy." This opinion of theirs ſtrikes directly at the Act of Navigation, and other ſubſequent laws, which from time to time have been made in the wiſe policy of that Act; and ſhould they ever be encouraged to procure for themſelves that abſolute freedom of trade, which they appear to deſire, our plantations would become, not only of no benefit, but in the higheſt degree prejudicial to the commerce and welfare of their Mother-Country; nor is it eaſy to conceive a greater encouragement, than the repealing of a law oppoſed by them on ſuch principles, and with ſo much contempt of the Sovereignty of the Britiſh Legiſlature.

EIGHTHLY. Becauſe, the appearance of weakneſs and timidity in the Government and Parliament of this Kingdom, which a conceſſion of this nature may too probably carry with it, has a manifeſt tendency to draw on further inſults, and by leſſening the reſpect of all his Majeſty's ſubjects to the dignity of his Crown, and authority of his Laws, throw the whole Britiſh empire into a miſerable ſtate of confuſion and anarchy, with which it ſeems by many ſymptoms to be dangerouſly threatened; and this is the more to be feared, as the plea of our North-American Colonies, that not being repreſented in the Parliament of Great-Britain, they ought not to pay taxes impoſed or levied upon them by the authority thereof, may by the ſame reaſoning be extended to all perſons in this Iſland, who do not actually vote for Members of Parliament, nor can we help apprehending, that the opinion of ſome countenance being given to ſuch notions by the Legiſlature itſelf, in conſenting to this Bill, for the Repeal of the Stamp-Act, may greatly promote the contagion of a moſt dangerous doctrine, deſtructive to all Government, which has ſpread itſelf over all our North-American Colonies, that the obedience of the ſubject is not due to the Laws and Legiſlature of the Realm, further than he in his own private judgment ſhall think it conformable to the ideas he has formed of a free conſtitution.

NINTHLY. Becauſe, we think it no effectual guard, or ſecurity againſt this danger, that the Parliament has declared in the reſolutions of both Houſes, paſſed during this ſeſſion; and now reduced into a Bill, That ſuch notions are ill founded; as men will always look more to deeds than words, and may therefore incline to believe, that the inſurrections in our Colonies, excited by thoſe notions, having ſo far proved ſucceſsful, as to attain the very point, at which they aimed, the immediate repeal of the Stamp-Act, without any previous ſubmiſſion on the part of the Colonies; the Legiſlature has in fact ſubmitted to them, and has only more grievouſly injured its own dignity and authority, by verbally aſſerting that Right, which it ſubſtantially yields up to their Oppoſition. The reaſons aſſigned for this conceſſion render it ſtill more alarming, as they ariſe from an illegal and hoſtile combination of the people of America, to diſtreſs and ſtarve our Manufacturers, and to with-hold from our Merchants the payment of their juſt debts: The former of which meaſures has only been practiſed in open war between two States; and the latter, we believe, not even in that ſituation, either by the publick or by individuals, among the civiliſed nations of Europe, in modern times. If this unprecedented plan of intimidation ſhall meet with ſucceſs, it is eaſy to foreſee, that the practice of it for other and ſtill greater objects will frequently be renewed, and our manufacturers and merchants reduced to the like, and more permanent diſtreſs; we cannot therefore but wiſh, that ſome more eligible method, conſiſtent with their future ſafety and our dignity, had been taken by Parliament, to ſhew our tender concern and compaſſion for their ſufferings, and to diſcourage any other ſuch unwarrantable attempts; which we are fully perſuaded would have been very practicable, with due care and attention, and at an expence very inferior to the importance of the object.

LASTLY. Becauſe, we are convinced from the unanimous teſtimony of the Governors, and other officers of the Crown in America, that if, by a moſt unhappy delay and neglect to provide for the due execution of the law, and arming the Government there with proper orders and powers, repeatedly called for in vain, theſe diſturbances had not been continued and increaſed, they might eaſily have been quieted before they had attained to any dangerous height; and we cannot, without feeling the moſt lively ſenſe of grief and indignation, hear arguments drawn from the progreſs of evils, which ſhould and might have been ſtopped in their firſt and feeble beginnings, uſed for the ſtill greater evil of ſacrificing to a preſent relief the higheſt permanent intereſts, and the whole Majeſty, Power, and Reputation of Government: This afflicts us the more deeply, becauſe it appears from many letters, that this law, if properly ſupported by Government, would from the peculiar circumſtances attending the diſobedience to it, execute itſelf without bloodſhed. And it is ſaid in one of the letters to Mr. Secretary Conway, "That the principal view is to intimidate the Par-"liament; but that if it be thought prudent to enforce "their authority, the people dare not oppoſe a vigorous re-"ſolution of the Parliament of Great-Britain." That vigorous reſolution has not yet been found in the Parliament; and we greatly fear, that the want of it will certainly produce one of theſe two fatal conſequences; either that the repeal of this law will in effect annull and abrogate all other laws and ſtatutes relating to our Colonies, and particularly the Acts that reſtrain or limit their Commerce, of which they are moſt impatient; or, if we ſhould hereafter attempt to enforce the execution of thoſe laws againſt their will, and by virtue of an authority, which they have dared to inſult with impunity and ſucceſs, that endeavour will bring upon us all thoſe evils and inconveniencies, to the fear of which we now ſacrifice the Sovereignty of the Realm; and this at a time when the ſtrength of our Colonies, as well as their deſire of a total independence on the Legiſlature and Government of their Mother-Country, may be greatly augmented, and when the circumſtances and diſpoſitions of the other powers of Europe, may render the conteſt far more dangerous and formidable to this Kingdom.
